Overview

The Rules of Superintendence for the Courts of Ohio governing parenting coordination, effective April 1, 2014, state that “A court of common pleas or division of the court that chooses to use parenting coordination in the court or division shall adopt a local rule governing all ordered parenting coordination...” Therefore, prior to referring cases to a parenting coordinator, local courts that choose to use parenting coordination must first adopt a local rule that includes the requirements outlined in the Rules of Superintendence governing parenting coordination. This toolkit provides the necessary resources to create a local rule and implement a parenting coordination program.

The Supreme Court of Ohio Dispute Resolution Section gratefully acknowledges the assistance of the Supreme Court of Ohio Commission on Dispute Resolution members and other individuals who helped develop, review and refine these resources by dedicating their collective effort, experience and expertise. We wish to extend special recognition and tremendous gratitude to:

- Dick Altman, Magistrate, Henry County Court of Common Pleas, Domestic Relations and Juvenile Divisions; member, Supreme Court of Ohio Commission on Dispute Resolution.
- The Honorable Mary J. Boyle, Chief Administrative Judge, Eighth District Court of Appeals; Chairperson, Supreme Court of Ohio Commission on Dispute Resolution.
- Serpil Ergun, Chief Magistrate, Cuyahoga County Court of Common Pleas, Domestic Relations Division.

RULES OF SUPERINTENDENCE FOR THE COURTS OF OHIO

RULE 90. Definitions.

As used in Sup.R. 90 through 90.12:

(A) Domestic abuse

“Domestic abuse” means a pattern of abusive and controlling behavior that may include physical violence; coercion; threats; intimidation; isolation; or emotional, sexual, or economic abuse.

(B) Domestic violence

“Domestic violence” has the same meaning as in R.C. 3113.31(A)(1).

(C) Parenting coordination

“Parenting coordination” means a child-focused dispute resolution process ordered by a court of common pleas or division of the court to assist parties in implementing a parental rights and responsibilities or companionship time order using assessment, education, case management, conflict management, coaching, or decision-making. “Parenting coordination” is not mediation subject to R.C. Chapter 2710 or Sup.R. 16.

(D) Parenting coordinator

“Parenting coordinator” means an individual appointed by a court of common pleas or division of the court to conduct parenting coordination.

RULE 90.01. Local Parenting Coordination Rule.

A court of common pleas or division of the court that chooses to use parenting coordination in the court or division shall adopt a local rule governing all ordered parenting coordination that does all of the following:

- (E) Prohibits a parenting coordinator, even with consent of the parties, from serving in multiple roles with the same family that creates a professional conflict, including but not limited to a child's attorney or child advocate; guardian ad litem; custody evaluator; therapist, consultant, coach, or other mental health role to any family member; or attorney for either party;
- (F) Allows a mediator to also serve as a parenting coordinator with the same family, provided there is written consent of the parties and it is approved by the court or division;
- (G) Addresses the issuance of parenting coordination agreements and reports or decisions by a parenting coordinator;
- (H) Addresses terms and conditions for fees, including provisions for waiver of fees for indigent parties;
- (I) Provides that the decision of a parenting coordinator is effective immediately and remains effective unless ordered otherwise by the court or division;

(A) The parties have ongoing disagreements about the implementation of a parental rights and responsibilities or companionship time order and need ongoing assistance;

(B) There is a history of extreme or ongoing parental conflict that has been unresolved by previous litigation or other interventions and from which a child of the parties is adversely affected;

(C) The parties have a child whose parenting time schedule requires frequent adjustments, specified in an order of the court or division, to maintain age-appropriate contact with both parties, and the parties have been previously unable to reach agreements on their parenting time schedule without intervention by the court or division;

(D) The parties have a child with a medical or psychological condition or disability that requires frequent decisions regarding treatment or frequent adjustments in the parenting time schedule, specified in an order of the court or division, and the parties have been previously unable to reach agreements on their parenting time schedule without intervention by the court or division;

(E) One or both parties suffer from a medical or psychological condition or disability that results in an inability to reach agreements on or make adjustments in their parenting time schedule without assistance, even when minor in nature;

(F) Any other factor as determined by the court or division.

RULE 90.03. Inappropriate Uses of Parenting Coordination.

A court of common pleas or division of the court that chooses to use parenting coordination in the court or division shall not order parenting coordination to determine any of the following:

(A) Whether to grant, modify, or terminate a protection order;

(B) The terms and conditions of a protection order;

- (B) Appropriate procedures are in place to provide for the safety of the person who is or may be the victim of domestic abuse or domestic violence and all other persons involved in the parenting coordination process;
- (C) Procedures are in place for the parenting coordinator to terminate a parenting coordination session if there is a continued threat of domestic abuse, domestic violence, or coercion between the parties.

- (C) The term of the appointment;
- (D) The scope of confidentiality;
- (E) The parties' responsibility for fees and expenses for services rendered by the parenting coordinator.

RULE 90.09. Responsibilities of Court or Division Using Parenting Coordination.

A court of common pleas or division of the court that chooses to use parenting coordination in the court or division shall do all of the following:

- (A) Maintain a roster of all parenting coordinators appointed by the court or division, including the name; address; telephone number; and, if available, electronic mail address of each parenting coordinator. The court or division shall require each parenting coordinator to notify the court or division of any changes to this information.

coordinator may benefit, directly or indirectly, except from services as a parenting coordinator.

(D) Ex parte communications

A parenting coordinator shall have no ex parte communications with the appointing court or division regarding substantive matters or issues on the merits of the case.

(E) Legal advice

Guidelines for Parenting Coordination

Guidelines for Parenting Coordination

Developed by

The AFCC Task Force on Parenting Coordination

May 2005

Foreword

The Guidelines for Parenting Coordination ("Guidelines") are the product of the interdisciplinary AFCC Task Force on Parenting Coordination ("Task Force"). First appointed in 2001 by Denise McColley, AFCC President 2001-02, the Task Force originally discussed creating model standards of practice. At that time, however, the Task Force agreed that the role was too new for a comprehensive set of standards. The Task Force instead investigated the issues inherent in the new role and described the manner in which jurisdictions in the United States that have used parenting coordination resolved those issues. The report of the Task Force's (2001-2003) two-year study was published in April of 2003 as "Parenting Coordination: Implementation Issues."¹

The Task Force was reconstituted in 2003 by Hon. George Czutrin, AFCC President 2003-04. President Czutrin charged the Task Force with developing model standards of practice for parenting coordination for North America and named two Canadian members to the twelve-member task force. The Task Force continued investigating the use of the role in the United States and in Canada and drafted Model Standards for Parenting Coordination after much study, discussion and review of best practices in both the United States and Canada.

AFCC posted the Model Standards on its website, afccnet.org, and the Task Force members also widely distributed them for comments. The Task Force received many thoughtful and articulate comments which were carefully considered in making substantive and editorial changes based upon the feedback that was received. Even the name of this document was changed to "Guidelines for Parenting Coordination" to indicate the newness of the field of parenting coordination and the difficulty of coming to consensus in the United States and Canada on "standards" at this stage in the use of parenting coordination. The AFCC Board of Directors approved the Guidelines on May 21, 2005.

The members of the AFCC Task Force on Parenting Coordination (2003 – 2005) were: Christine A. Coates, M.Ed., J.D., Chairperson and Reporter; Linda Fieldstone, M.Ed., Secretary; Barbara Ann Bartlett, J.D., Robin M. Deutsch, Ph.D., Billie Lee Dunford-Jackson, J.D., Philip M. Epstein, Q.C. LSM, Barbara Fidler, Ph.D., C.Psych, Acc.FM. Jonathan Gould, Ph.D., Hon. William G. Jones, Joan Kelly, Ph.D., Matthew J. Sullivan, Ph.D., Robert N. Wistner, J.D.

GUIDELINES FOR PARENTING COORDINATION

Overview and Definitions

Parenting coordination is a child-focused alternative dispute resolution process in which a mental health or legal professional with mediation training and experience assists high conflict parents to implement their parenting plan by facilitating the resolution of their disputes in a timely manner, educating parents about children's needs, and with prior approval of the parties and/or the court, making decisions within the scope of the court order or appointment contract.

The overall objective of parenting coordination is to assist high conflict parents to implement their parenting plan, to monitor compliance with the details of the plan, to resolve conflicts regarding their children and the parenting plan in a timely manner, and to protect and sustain safe, healthy and meaningful parent-child relationships. Parenting coordination is a quasi-legal, mental health, alternative dispute resolution (ADR) process that combines assessment, education, case management, conflict management and sometimes decision-making functions.

The Parenting Coordinator (hereinafter referred to as "PC") role is most frequently reserved for those high conflict parents who have demonstrated their longer-term inability or unwillingness to make parenting decisions on their own, to comply with parenting agreements and orders, to reduce their child-related conflicts, and to protect their children from the impact of that conflict. Because the PC makes recommendations and/or decisions for the parties and possibly reports to the court, the PC should be appointed by and be responsible to the court. This delegation of judicial authority is a serious issue and courts should only appoint qualified professionals. The power and authority inherent in the role of the PC are substantial whether stipulated by the parties or assigned by the court. Therefore, it is important that any jurisdiction implementing a parenting coordination program adopt and adhere to guidelines for PC practice and programs.

As the parenting coordination model has been implemented in various jurisdictions, there has been variation in the manner in which the PC practices, the authority of the PC, the stage of the legal process when the PC is appointed and functions, the various roles of the PC, the qualifications and training of the PC, and the best practices for the role.

The alternative dispute resolution process described above as central to the parenting coordinator's role may be inappropriate and potentially exploited by perpetrators of domestic violence who have exhibited patterns of violence, threat, intimidation and coercive control over their co-parent. In those cases of domestic violence where one parent seeks to obtain and maintain power and control over the other, the role of the PC changes to an almost purely enforcement function. Here, the PC is likely to be dealing with a court order, the more detailed the better, rather than a mutually agreed upon parenting plan; the role is to ensure compliance with the details of the order and to test each request for variance from its terms with an eye to protecting the custodial parent's autonomy to make decisions based on the children's best interests and guarding against manipulation by the abusing parent. ADR techniques in such cases may have the effect of maintaining or increasing the imbalance of power and the victim's risk of harm. Accordingly, each jurisdiction should have in place a process to screen out and/or develop specialized PC protocols and procedures in this type of DV case. Likewise, PCs should routinely screen prospective cases for DV and decline to accept such cases if they do not have specialized expertise and procedures to effectively manage DV cases involving an imbalance of power, control and coercion.

The purpose of these Guidelines for Parenting Coordination ("Guidelines") is to provide:

1. detailed guidelines of practice for PCs;
2. guidelines for PCs regarding their ethical obligations and conduct;
3. qualifications for PCs, including relevant education, training and experience;
4. assistance to jurisdictions that are implementing parenting coordination programs by providing guidelines of practice that they can adopt; and
5. assistance to jurisdictions, professional organizations, educational institutions and professionals in the development and implementation of parenting coordination programs.

These Guidelines are aspirational in nature and offer guidance in best practices, qualifications, training and ethical obligations for PCs. Although they are not intended to create legal rules or standards of liability, they do provide very specific and detailed recommendations for training and best practices because of the expressed need for guidelines for program development and training. It is understood that each jurisdiction may vary in its practices; however, for parenting coordination to be accepted as a credible professional role, certain minimum guidelines of conduct and best practices must be articulated and followed.

The Guidelines for Parenting Coordination include different levels of guidance:

- Use of the term “may” in a Guideline is the lowest strength of guidance and indicates a practice that the PC should consider adopting, but, from which the PC can deviate in the exercise of good professional judgment.

- Most of the Guidelines use the term “should” which indicates that the practice described in the Guideline is highly desirable and should be departed from only with very strong reason.

- The rarer use of the term “shall” in a Guideline is a higher level of guidance to the PC, indicating that the PC should not have discretion to depart from the practice described.

Guideline I

A PC shall be qualified by education and training to undertake parenting coordination and shall continue to develop professionally in the role.

A. The PC shall be required to have training and experience in family mediation. The PC should become a certified/qualified mediator under the rules or laws of the jurisdiction in which he or she practices, if such certification is available.

B. The PC shall be a licensed mental health or legal professional in an area relating to families, or a certified family mediator under the rules or laws of the jurisdiction with a master’s degree in a mental health field.

C. The PC should have extensive practical experience in the profession with high conflict or litigating parents.

D. The PC shall have training in the parenting coordination process, family dynamics in separation and divorce, parenting coordination techniques, domestic violence and child maltreatment, and court specific parenting coordination procedures. A model training curriculum incorporating four modules is included in these Guidelines as Appendix A.

E. A PC shall acquire and maintain professional competence in the parenting coordination process. A PC shall regularly participate in educational activities promoting professional growth. It is recommended that a PC participate in peer consultation or mentoring to receive feedback and support on cases. PC orders and/or private agreements should specify that such professional consultation is permitted.

F. A PC shall decline an appointment, withdraw, or request appropriate assistance when the facts and circumstances of the case are beyond the PC's skill or expertise.

G. A jurisdiction should consider "grandfathering" existing professionals with appropriate experience.

Guideline II

A PC shall maintain impartiality in the process of parenting coordination, although a PC is not neutral regarding the outcome of particular decisions. Impartiality means freedom from favoritism or bias in word, action, or appearance, and includes a commitment to assist all parties, as opposed to any one individual.

A. A PC shall withdraw if the PC determines he or she cannot act in an impartial or objective manner.

B. A PC shall neither give nor accept a gift, favor, loan or other item of value from any party having an interest in the parenting coordination process. During the parenting coordination process, a PC shall not solicit or otherwise attempt to procure future professional services or positions from which the PC may profit.

C. A PC shall not coerce or improperly influence any party to make a decision.

D. A PC shall not intentionally or knowingly misrepresent or omit any material fact, law, or circumstance in the parenting coordination process.

E. A PC shall not accept any engagement, provide any service or perform any act outside the role of PC that would compromise the PC's integrity or impartiality in the parenting coordination process.

Guideline III

A PC shall not serve in a matter that presents a clear conflict of interest.

A. A conflict of interest arises when any relationship between the PC and the participants or the subject matter of the dispute compromises or appears to compromise a PC's impartiality.

B. A PC shall disclose potential conflicts of interest as soon as practical after a PC becomes aware of the interest or relationship giving rise to the potential conflict.

C. After appropriate disclosure, the PC may serve with the written agreement of all parties. However, if a conflict of interest clearly impairs a PC's impartiality, the PC shall withdraw regardless of the express agreement of the parties.

D. During the parenting coordination process, a PC shall not create a conflict of interest by providing any services to interested parties that are not directly related to the parenting coordination process.

E. A PC may make referrals to other professionals to work with the family, but shall avoid actual or apparent conflicts of interest by referrals. No commissions, rebates, or similar remuneration shall be given or received by a PC for parenting coordination or other professional referrals.

Guideline IV

A PC shall not serve in dual sequential roles.

A. A PC shall not serve in multiple roles in a case that create a professional conflict.

1. A child's attorney or child advocate shall not become a PC in the same case.

2. A mediator or custody evaluator shall be cautious about becoming a PC in the same case, even with the consent of the parties, because of the differences in the role and potential impact of the role change.

3. A PC shall not become a custody evaluator either during or after the term of a PC's involvement with the family.

4. A PC shall not be appointed after serving as a therapist, consultant, or coach, or serve in another mental health role to any family member.

5. A PC shall not become a therapist, consultant, or coach, or serve in any other mental health role to any family member, either during or after the term of the PC's involvement.

6. A PC shall not become one client's lawyer, either during or after the term of the PC's involvement, nor shall one client's lawyer become the PC in that client's case.

B. A PC should attempt to facilitate resolution of issues by agreement of the parties; however, the PC is not acting in a formal mediation role. An effort towards resolving an issue (which may include therapeutic, mediation, educational, and negotiation skills) does not disqualify a PC from deciding an issue that remains unresolved after efforts of facilitation.

Guideline V

A PC shall inform the parties of the limitations on confidentiality in the parenting coordination process. Information shall not be shared outside of the parenting coordination process except for legitimate and allowed professional purposes. A PC shall maintain confidentiality regarding the sharing of information outside of the scope of the parenting coordination process, which is obtained during the parenting coordination process, except as provided by court order or by written agreement of the parties.

A. Parenting coordination is not a confidential process, either for communications between the parties and their children and the PC, or for communications between the PC and other relevant parties to the parenting coordination process, or for communications with the court.²

B. A PC shall inform the parties of the following limitations of confidentiality:

1. The PC shall report suspected child abuse or neglect to child protective services whether or not a mandatory or voluntary reporter under state, provincial or federal law; and

² Parenting coordination is an unusual type of intervention that does not fit within the existing framework of rules and laws dealing with the subjects of "statutory privileges," "rules of evidence," and "professional codes of ethics" related to the subject of "confidentiality" and statements made by parents or people involved in any disputed parenting case. In cases not involving a PC, the statements of parties may be protected from use as evidence in the dispute resolution process, for any of those reasons. However, the essence of the PC concept is that all such confidentiality protections need to be stripped away, so the PC is free to make quick decisions based upon all knowledge the PC has obtained from the parties and other sources. Consequently, in order for the PC to be empowered to operate freely and effectively in the role of expeditious dispute resolver, appropriate provisions need to be included in the written agreement and/or court order of appointment for the effective waiver of all privileges and rules of evidence or professional conduct regarding confidentiality which may be waived. In addition, a clear statement should be included to provide that the PC will not provide either party with legal advice or representation or psychotherapy, and the parents are advised to seek any such advice from independent providers of their own choice. The parents are entitled to a very clear and unambiguous description of the privileges and rules they are being asked to waive in order to empower the PC to perform the rather unique services contemplated in the parenting coordination process. Likewise, the PC has a significant concern with establishing a barrier from complaints of unprofessional conduct from disgruntled parents who are not happy about PC decisions.

2. The PC shall report to law enforcement or other authorities if the PC has reason to believe that any family member appears to be at serious risk to harm himself or herself, another family member or a third party.

Guideline VI

A PC shall assist the parties in reducing harmful conflict and in promoting the best interests of the children consistent with the roles and functions of a PC.

A. A PC serves an assessment function. The PC should review the custody evaluation, other relevant records, interim or final court orders, information from interviews with parents and children and other collateral sources, domestic violence protection orders, and any other applicable cases involving criminal assault, domestic violence or child abuse, educational records, and analyze the impasses and issues as brought forth by the parties.

B. A PC serves an educational function. The PC should educate the parties about child development, divorce research, the impact of their behavior on the children, parenting skills, and communication and conflict resolution skills. The PC may coach the parties about these issues.

C. A PC serves a coordination/case management function. The PC should work with the professionals and systems involved with the family (e.g. mental health, health care, social services, education, legal) as well as with extended family, stepparents, and significant others.

D. A PC serves a conflict management function. The PC's primary role is to assist the parties to work out disagreements regarding the children to minimize conflict. The PC may utilize dispute resolution skills from principles and practices of negotiation, mediation, and arbitration. To assist the parents in reducing conflict, the PC may monitor the faxed, emailed, or written exchanges of parent communications and suggest more productive forms of communication that limit conflict between the parents. In order to protect the parties and children in domestic violence cases involving power, control and coercion, a PC should tailor the techniques used so as to avoid offering the opportunity for further coercion.

E. A PC serves a decision-making function. When parents are not able to decide or resolve disputes on their own, the PC shall be empowered to make decisions to the extent described in the court order, or to make reports or recommendations to the court for further consideration. PCs should communicate their decisions in a timely manner in person or by fax, e-mail or telephone. In the event decisions are provided orally, a written version shall follow in a timely manner.

F. A PC shall not offer legal advice.

Guideline VII

A PC shall serve by parent stipulation and/or formal order of the court, which shall clearly and specifically define the PC's scope of authority and responsibilities.

A. A court order is necessary to provide the PC authority to work with the parents outside of the adversarial process, to obtain information, and to make recommendations and decisions as specified in the order.³

B. In addition to the court order for the PC, a written agreement between the parties and the PC may be used to detail specific issues not contained in the court order, such as fee payments, billing practices and retainers.

C. The court order or consent order should specify a term of service for the PC, including starting and ending dates.⁴ Parents can request that a PC continue for additional terms of service following the expiration of each term or can decline to renew the PC's services. Similarly the PC can give notice prior to the end of the term of service that the PC will not continue to serve as PC.

D. A PC should not initiate providing services until the PC has received the fully executed and filed court order appointing the PC, or the parents, their counsel (if any) and the PC have signed a consent agreement, if any.

⁴ Many experienced PC's have found a period of 18 months to 2 years to be optimal in terms of becoming familiar with the family and developing a working relationship with the parents.

Guideline VIII

A PC shall facilitate the participants' understanding of the parenting coordination process so that they can give informed consent to the process.

A. The position of the PC is one of considerable authority and power. It is important that parents fully understand the extent of the parental rights and power they are assigning to the PC in the form of decision-making, the limited nature of the confidentiality of the process, the professional persons with whom the PC will be authorized to consult or obtain information, and what the parents' rights are in seeking redress with the court.

B. In the first session, a PC should carefully review the nature of the PC's role with the parents, to ensure that they understand what the parenting coordination process involves.

Guideline IX

A PC shall fully disclose and explain the basis of any fees and charges to the participants.

A. All charges for parenting coordination services shall be based upon the actual time expended by the PC or as directed by the local jurisdiction's parenting coordination program. All fees and costs shall be appropriately divided between the parties as directed by the court order of appointment or as agreed upon in the PC's written fee agreement with the parties with the approval of the court.⁵

B. Prior to beginning the parenting coordination process, and in writing, a PC shall explain to the parties and counsel the basis of fees and costs and the method of payment and any fees associated with postponement, cancellation and/or nonappearance, as well as any other items and the parties' pro rata share of the fees and costs as determined by the court order or agreed to by the parties with approval of the court. In cases of domestic violence involving power, control and coercion, the PC shall hold individual sessions with the parties to convey this information.

⁵ Typically the fees are split equally between the parties, although if their assets and income differ substantially, fees may be apportioned accordingly. In states that have the Income Shares child support guidelines, courts sometimes apportion responsibility for PC costs in the same percentages as child support is apportioned. The court, rather than the PC, should make a determination of the appropriate ratio of payment based on the available financial data. The order may also include a provision for the parent coordinator to alter the usual ratio of payment if one parent abuses the process. In the event that a party requests judicial review of a parenting coordinator decision and does not prevail, the court may order full payment of fees by that party.

C. Activities for which a PC may charge typically include time spent interviewing parents, children and collateral sources of information; preparation of agreements; correspondence, decisions and reports; review of records and correspondence; telephone and electronic conversation; travel; court preparation; and appearances at hearings, depositions and meetings.

D. The PC should comply with any local statute, constitutional rulings, or practice rules regarding fees. A PC may request a retainer or advance deposit prior to starting a case.⁶ The parties should be billed on a regular basis and notified when the retainer or advance deposit, if any, is to be replenished.

E. A PC shall maintain records necessary to support charges for services and expenses and should make a detailed accounting of those charges to the parties, their counsel or the court on a regular basis, if requested to do so.

Guideline X

A PC will communicate with all parties, counsel, children, and the court in a manner which preserves the integrity of the parenting coordination process and considers the safety of the parents and children. The PC will have access to persons involved with family members and to documentary information necessary to fulfill the responsibilities of the PC.

A. Because parenting coordination is a non-adversarial process designed to reduce acrimony and settle disputes efficiently, a PC may engage in ex parte (individual) communications with each of the parties and/or their attorneys, if specified in writing in the order of appointment, PC agreement or stipulation. The PC may initiate or receive ex parte oral or written communications with the parties and their attorneys, legal representatives of the children, and other parties relevant to understanding the issues. The PC should do so in an objective, balanced manner that takes into consideration the possibility or perception of bias. The PC should communicate agreements, recommendations, or decisions to all parties and counsel at the same time.

B. If reports are written, the PC should follow the court's rules or instructions regarding whether the court should receive a copy. The PC shall not communicate ex parte with the judge.

C. The PC typically should have access to any persons involved with family members including, but not limited to, the custody evaluator, lawyers, school officials, and physical and mental health care providers. The PC shall have the authority to meet with the children, any stepparent or person acting in that role, or anyone else the PC determines to have a significant role in contributing to or resolving the conflict. The PC should notify any such collateral sources that information obtained from them is not confidential and that it may be used in making decisions or writing reports or recommendations to or testifying in court.

D. The PC should have access to all orders and pleadings filed in the case, as well as the custody evaluation report, school and medical records of the children, and reports of psychological testings that were generated prior to, during or after the pendency of the case. The court order should require that the parties execute releases and consents to permit access to such data and other relevant information.

E. The PC should have initial individual and/or joint interviews with the parties, and may want to interview the children if the PC has the appropriate training and skills. PCs may interview any individuals who provide services to the children as needed to assess the children's needs and wishes. The communication between the parties may be in joint face-to-face meetings, telephone conference calls, individual face-to-face or telephone meetings, e-mail, or fax. The PC should determine whether separate or joint sessions are most appropriate at any particular time. In cases of domestic violence involving power, control and coercion, the PC shall conduct interviews and sessions with the parties individually.

F. The PC shall be alert to the reasonable suspicion of any acts of domestic violence directed at the other parent, a current partner, or the children. The PC should adhere to any protection orders, and take whatever measures may be necessary to ensure the safety of the parties, their children and the PC.

G. The PC should be alert to the reasonable suspicion of any substance abuse by either parent or child, as well as any psychological or psychiatric impairment of any parent or child.

H. The PC should keep notes regarding all communications with the parties, the children and other persons with whom the PC speaks about the case.

I. A PC shall document in writing all resolutions agreed upon by the parties or determined by arbitration, noting the process by which the agreement or decision was made.

J. The PC shall maintain records in a manner that is professional, comprehensive and inclusive of information and documents that relate to the parenting coordination process and that support decisions and recommendations by the PC.

Guideline XI

A PC should attempt to facilitate agreement between the parties in a timely manner on all disputes regarding their children as they arise. When parents are unable to reach agreement, and if it has been ordered by the court, or authorized by consent, the PC shall decide the disputed issues.

A. A PC may be granted the authority to make decisions for the parties when they cannot agree, or the PC may be allowed only to make recommendations to the parties or the court. The scope of the PC's decision-making authority may be limited in some jurisdictions by constitutional law or statute. A PC should be knowledgeable about governing law and procedure in the PC's jurisdiction regarding decision-making or arbitration by the PC.

B. A PC shall have only the authority that is delegated in the court order or the consent provided by the parties. If so written in the order or consent agreement, a PC may have authority to resolve the following type of issues:

1. Minor changes or clarification of parenting time/access schedules or conditions including vacation, holidays, and temporary variation from the existing parenting plan;
2. Transitions/exchanges of the children including date, time, place, means of transportation and transporter;
3. Health care management including medical, dental, orthodontic, and vision care;
4. Child-rearing issues;
5. Psychotherapy or other mental health care including substance abuse assessment or counseling for the children;
6. Psychological testing or other assessment of the children and parents;
7. Education or daycare including school choice, tutoring, summer school, participation in special education testing and programs or other major educational decisions;
8. Enrichment and extracurricular activities including camps and jobs;
9. Religious observances and education;

10. Children's travel and passport arrangements;
11. Clothing, equipment, and personal possessions of the children;
12. Communication between the parents about the children including telephone, fax, e-mail, notes in backpacks, etc.;
13. Communication by a parent with the children including telephone, cell phone, pager, fax, and e-mail when they are not in that parent's care;
14. Alteration of appearance of the children including haircuts, tattoos, ear and body piercing;
15. Role of and contact with significant others and extended families;
16. Substance abuse assessment or testing for either or both parents or a child, including access to results; and
17. Parenting classes for either or both parents.

C. The PC should use or gather written or verbal statements of the dispute from each party, as well as other relevant sources of information. The methodology used by the PC shall be fair to both parties, and be transparent to both the court and the parties. Each party shall be given an opportunity to be heard in the process. Notice shall be given as to what is expected from the participation of the parties and the consequences of nonparticipation. If one party refuses to cooperate after notice, then the PC may continue to resolve the dispute.⁷

D. The PC shall issue a written resolution of the dispute or a verbal decision in time sensitive matters to be followed by a written decision.⁸

⁷ In some jurisdictions, the PC must notify the parties of the intent to proceed to an arbitration phase if the parties do not reach agreement on their own or with the assistance of the PC.

⁸ There is variation in the destination of the PC's recommendations and decisions. In most but not all jurisdictions in which PCs are appointed by court order, the PC is expected to send all recommendations, reports, and decisions to the court, as well as to each parent and their attorneys. Where the PC has not been appointed by the court, PCs should prepare recommendations, reports and decisions in such a manner that the court can access the information if requested. In most jurisdictions, that determination becomes an order and is considered binding. Standards for appeal and judicial review vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction.

E. A PC shall refrain from making decisions that would change legal custody and physical custody from one parent to the other or substantially change the parenting plan. Such major decisions are more properly within the scope of judicial authority. PCs may need to make temporary changes in the parenting plan if a parent is impaired in his or her functioning and incapable of fulfilling his or her court-ordered parenting functions until further information and assessment is obtained and the court has assumed decision-making responsibility.

Guideline XII

A PC shall not engage in marketing practices that contain false or misleading information. A PC shall ensure that any advertisements regarding qualifications, services to be rendered, or the parenting coordination process are accurate and honest. A PC shall not make claims of achieving specific outcomes or promises implying favoritism for the purpose of obtaining business.
